

Rekall's Law Firm Guide to The Cloud

The cloud is gaining ground within the legal industry as more legally driven software companies create cloud applications. The problem is that not all cloud services are built the same, and when considering client data security, some cloud services should be avoided altogether to uphold legal ethical practices. The truth is that not every cloud service is suitable for the legal industry.

Rekall has amassed years of experience in the IT industry with a heavy focus on law firm technologies, securities & cloud services. This CLE course will offer a definition of "The Cloud" as it pertains to law firms and the legal industry. There will be a focus on cloud security, client data ethics as it pertains to the cloud, the different types of cloud services as well as cloud services both suitable and un-suitable for the legal industry due to client data security ethics.
